How to set up your universal remote control

Follow this guide to programme your new remote control to operate both your new digital box and your TV.

When you have programmed your remote control, the following buttons will control your TV.

(standby)

(mute)

(volume [UP])

and

(volume [DOWN])

Using a four digit code

Find the make of your TV in the code table on the back of this guide. Keep the four digit codes for your TV close to hand while programming your remote control. You may need to try more than one of the codes provided to program the remote control.

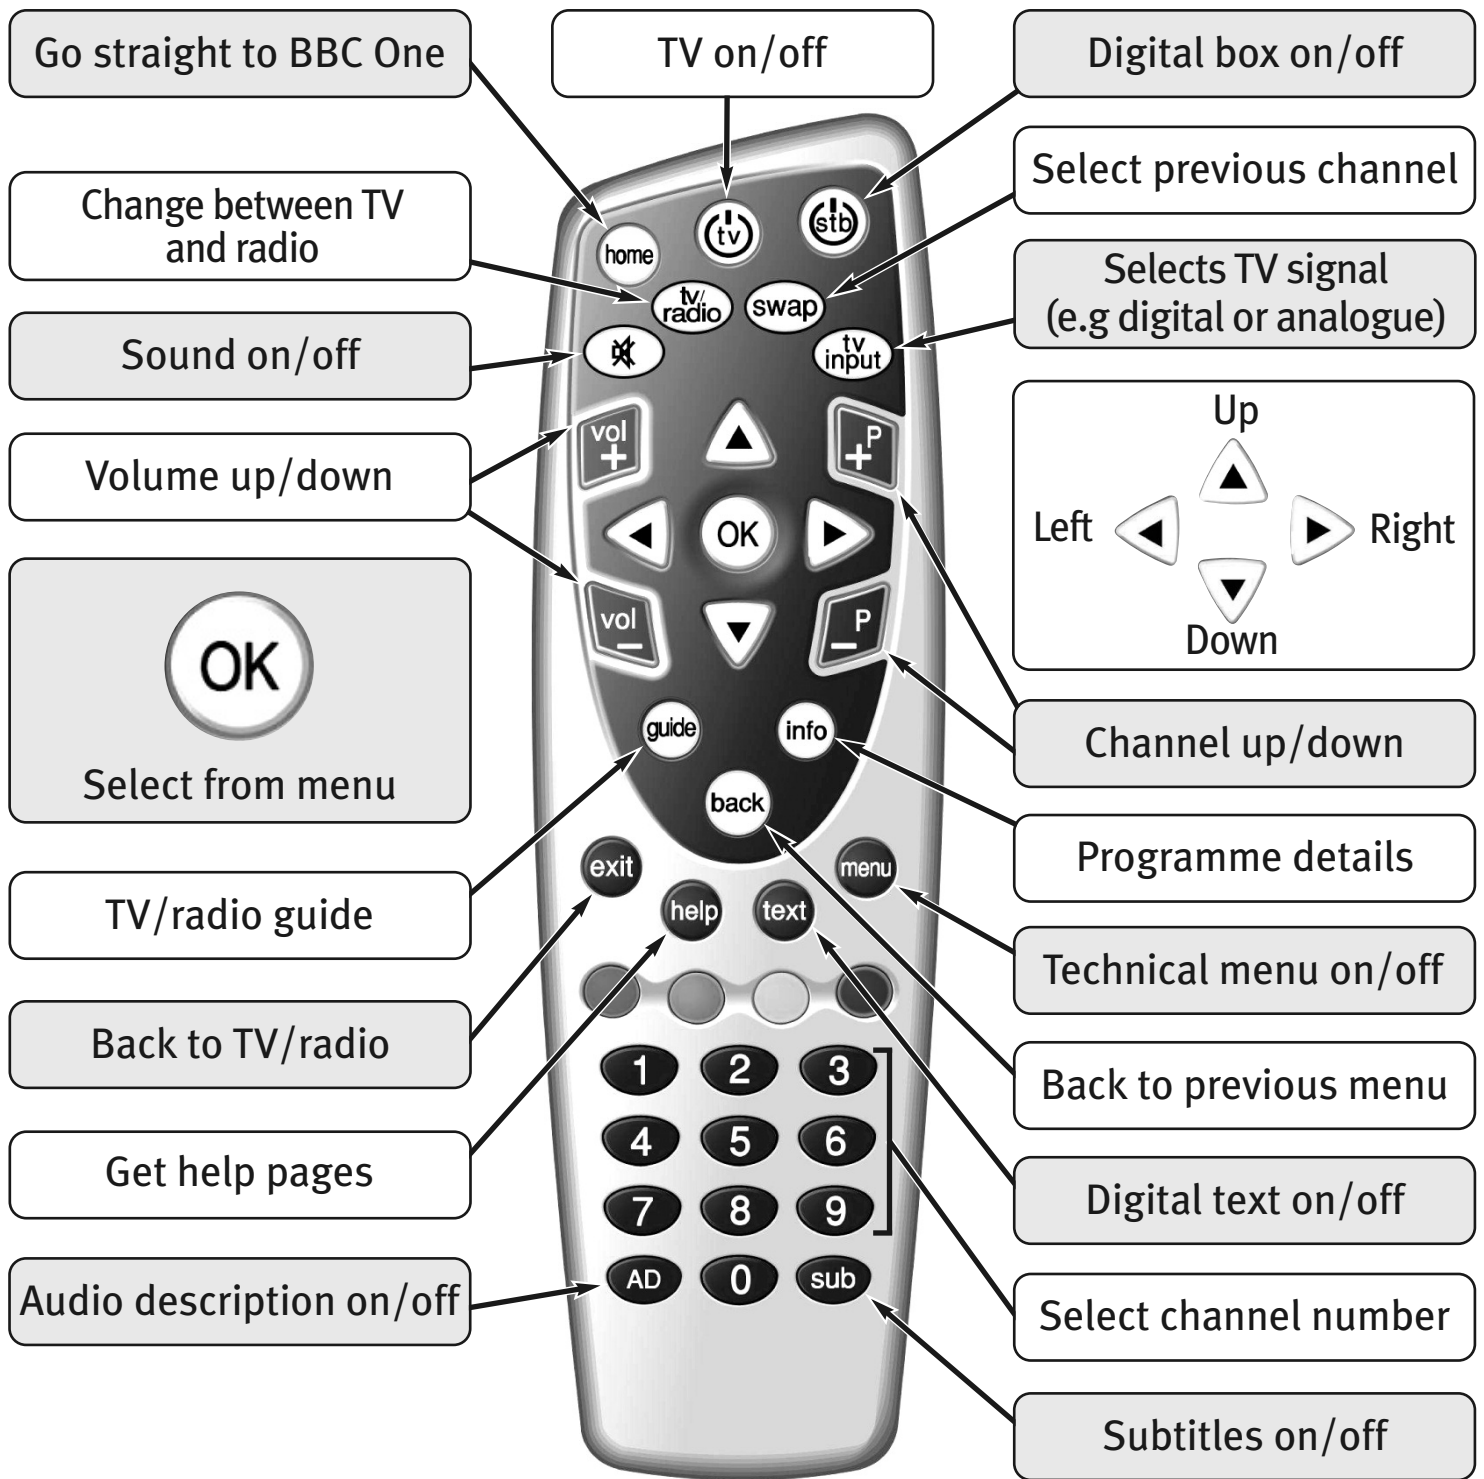

If there is no code for your TV, please read the 'Programming using the search facility' section below on the right.

- 1 Make sure that you are pointing the remote control at the TV and not at your digital box.
- 2 Press the  button and the  button on your new remote control at the same time until the  button flashes twice. Release the keys.
- 3 Enter the first four digit code from the code table overleaf for your make of TV. The top left  button will flash once every time you press a button, then twice, after you press the fourth button, to confirm that you have entered a valid code.
- 4 Press the  button and the TV should switch off. If it doesn't, repeat the whole process trying the next code in the row from the table.
- 5 If none of the codes work, try using the search facility explained on the opposite page.
- 6 When the TV switches off, you will know that you have found the correct code. Your remote control will remember this code even if you replace the batteries.
- 7 Once you have programmed your remote control to switch your TV on and off you can programme it to control your TV volume and mute functions (to turn the sound off completely). Before you do this, make sure that you have not turned down or muted the volume from your digital box.
 - A) Press both the  button and the  button (at the same time) and hold them down until the light under the  button flashes twice. Your remote control will now work the volume and mute functions of your TV.
 - B) If you ever want to change these buttons back to controlling the volume and mute of your digital box, press both the  button and the  button (at the same time) and hold them down until the light under the  button flashes four times. Your remote control will now work the volume and mute functions of your digital box.

Using the search facility

- 1 Make sure that you are pointing the remote control at the TV and not your digital box.
- 2 Press the  button and the  button on your new remote control at the same time until the  button flashes twice. Release the keys.
- 3 Press 991 (press and release 9, then 9 again, then 1). The  button will flash twice.
- 4 Press the  button and release it. The  button will flash once.
- 5 Now press the  button, and release it. Each time you press the  button, the remote control is searching for the correct code. Soon your TV will turn off. When it does turn off, press the  button to confirm this code.
- 6 Your remote control will remember this code even if you replace the batteries.
- 7 If none of the codes work, please contact your supplier.
- 8 Once you have programmed your remote control to switch your TV on and off you can programme it to control your TV volume and mute functions by following step 7 shown under 'Using the four digit code' on the left of this page.
